Shipping Strike Tightens Grip On Seaports

Mediators Plead For Resumption Of Peace Talks

NEW YORK (AP)—The creeping paralysis of a major maritime strike spread to seaports around the nation today as federal mediators pleaded for a full resumption of peace talks. There were reports that a federal injunction might be sought by one shipping group.

Thirty port cities and almost 1,000 freighters, tankers and passenger liners are involved in the strike, which began last Thursday midnight.

Major snarls to a settlement are a shippers' claim that the striking unions threatened to price the industry out of existence, and union demands for the right to organize "foreign-flag" shipping.

With White House intervention to head off the walkout a failure, pickets in New York, New Jersey, Louisiana, Texas and Massachusetts and other shipping areas marched at piers to halt work.

Violence flared. Three men were injured in a fight Friday when Texaco refinery workers near Camden, N.J., tried to cross a picket line set up by the National Maritime Union. Four persons were arrested.

Federal officials intensified efforts to get the seven unions representing 85,000 seamen and the bulk of the nation's shipping operators back to the bargaining table.

They worked amid reports that the American Merchant Marine Institute might ask President Kennedy to bring the Taft-Hartley Act to bear with an 80-day injunction so that shipping would be resumed while negotiations continue.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, here since Thursday under direct orders of the President, withdrew Friday night from active participation in mediating the nation-wide strike after urging the parties to resume negotiations.

Goldberg made his request shortly after Paul Hall, president of the Seafarers International Union, predicted that there will be an important "break" soon toward settling the walkout.

One negotiating session—between the American Merchant Marine Institute and the National Maritime Union—was set for today.

The effects of the strike have been slow to show up.

Only six ships were tied up in New York Friday.

In San Francisco, no vessels were scheduled to sail and there was no immediate way of measuring the scope of the walkout.

Seven ships were being picketed in New Orleans, and other ports reported similar situations. Union leaders said the number of vessels affected would mount over the weekend.

The main obstacle in the dispute is the union's demand to be given the right to bargain for crews of American-owned ships that are registered under foreign flags — so-called runaway ships. There are about 450 of these, mostly tankers.

The striking unions are the NMU with 37,999 members; Masters, Mates and Pilots with 12,000; Seafarers International Union with 23,000; Marine Engineers with 11,000 a purser's union with 5,000, and two unions of radio operators with a combined membership of about 1,500.

Robert Frost Undergoes Minor Surgery at 86

HANOVER, N.H. (AP) — Pulitzer Prize winning poet Robert Frost 86, was expected to be discharged from a hospital today after undergoing minor surgery.

Frost, the poet who participated in President Kennedy's inauguration, was admitted to the Dartmouth College infirmary Thursday. The nature of the operation Friday was not disclosed.

Frost said he would return to his Ripton, Vt., farm immediately to check up on his flowers and vegetables.

Legislature Adjournment Still about 2 Weeks Away

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Despite the best efforts of all concerned, Ohio's weary lawmakers will be in session at least two more weeks.

Thus the 104th General Assembly will miss by almost exactly one month the original target date for winning up its regular session.

The difficulty lies with the general appropriations bill to operate state departments for the next two years starting July 1. The Republican-controlled legislature has moved slowly on the $2-billion-plus budget because it was offered by a Democratic governor.

Majority Leader C. Stanley Mechem, R-Athens, now believes the big money bill will come to a Senate vote about June 27.

That would give lawmakers three days to settle their last-minute differences if they expect to end their working session by June 30.

The Senate held an unusual solo meeting Friday in an attempt to clear up some of the backlog of bills. The House held only a skeleton session to receive the proposed laws. Monday afternoon both houses will be back at it, hammer and thongs, trying to wind up the session.

A bill to increase small-loan interest rates, the first since 1943, was among the top issues before the Senate Friday. The Senate finally completed action on the House-approved bill by a 27-9 vote.

Sponsors asserted the amount the small-loan industry has averaged per $100 in loans has dwindled gradually over recent years from $7.86 in 1948 to $5.50 in 1959 while bank rates on short-term loans have risen.

Senate debate indicated that the interest rate on loans below $450 will drop slightly, but that rates on loans up to $2,000 will rise. An increase in the lending capacity of such firms from $1,000 at present to $2,000 is another major factor of the measure.

The only vocal opponent to the small-loan measure was Sen. Anthony O. Calabrese, D-Cuyahoga, who asserted: "This bill has some meat, but plenty of potatoes without sour cream and lots of butter."

The biggest argument of the Senate's day centered around a bill to set standards for safety glass in automobile windows at a right angle to or forward of a passenger—in other words, everything except the rear window.

Everyone appeared agreed that laminated safety glass is best for windshields. Beyond that point, all agreement ceased and tempers flared.

Some senators asserted that tempered plate glass which now is used in side windows of many cars will "explode" with even a light blow. But some regarded that as a benefit in cases where people are trapped in submerged cars. But others contended laminated safety glass could be broken more easily by trapped persons while others asserted a trapped person could hardly "plough his way through" a sheet of laminated glass.

The bill passed 21-15 on a strictly non-party line vote.

Observers predicted freely that because of the Senate battle and because the session will end soon the measure has little or no chance for approval in the House.

Dance Studio Sued By Spinster Typist

CLEVELAND (AP)—Miss Hazel Tipton, 36, a typist seeks repayment of $15,840, which she paid for dance lessons, and $25,000 in punitive damages in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court Friday against the Arthur Murray Dance studio.

She charges that she was "danced, talked, flattered, cheated and swindled" out of the $15,840 in a two-month period in 1959. She also asserted in her petition that the local studio, its director, Sam A. Costello, and Arthur Murray, Inc., of New York, entered into a conspiracy to defraud her of the money.

On Tuesday, leftist demonstrators smashed windows of the U.S. Information Agency offices in Santiago, Chile.

Moonshine Stills Are Mobile Now

CAIRO, Ga. (AP)—Moonshiners have taken to the road in this south Georgia area.

Grady County Sheriff James T. Hicks says their latest trick is to mount a still on a flat-bed truck and hook up to the gas and water lines of a farm home. It takes only a few seconds to unhook the connections and speed off.

Within the past few days, two mobile distilleries have been captured. One had a capacity of 200-300 gallons, carried its own mash, which was ready for cooking, and was mounted on the back of a two-room truck.

Death Ray Bomb Worries Solon

WASHINGTON (AP)—A "death ray" bomb that would kill all life in its target area has been discussed as the weapon of the future. But just how far in the future is worrying at least one senator.

The projected bomb — which might make the awesome hydrogen bomb seem clumsy — is called the neutron bomb, and it has been thrust back into the news by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn.

Dodd hinted the Russians could be secretly experimenting to develop the neutron bomb while the United States is honoring an atom-test moratorium.

He put forward such a possibility as an argument for resuming tests.

Dodd—who referred to the neutron bomb as "a kind of death ray"—said in a Senate speech Wednesday that the bomb "would do next to no physical damage. It would result in no (radioactive) contamination. But it would immediately destroy all life in the target area."

Dodd, in warning of the possibility of the Russians developing such a bomb, said it was one way "for destroying us at a relatively small risk to themselves."

Scientists have speculated on two possible versions of the bomb—

1. A small nuclear reactor that would shoot radioactive neutrons through a lead tube.

2. A scaled-down version of an atom bomb tailored to give out more neutron radiation than bomb producing energy. In conventional A-bombs, 85 per cent of the energy causes blast, shock and heat; the rest is radiation.

When told of the two alternative versions, Dodd told newsmen—"You are not far off."

Asked to explain the nature of the bomb he had in mind, Dodd said: "I think I know, but I'm sure I should not say."

"I don't believe the United States has developed such a weapon or is working on it," Dodd said. "It can't be worked on until testing is done."

Last November, the late Thomas E. Murray, former member of the Atomic Energy Commission, wrote an open letter to both presidential candidates, John F. Kennedy and Richard M. Nixon. He spoke guardedly of a revolutionary type nuclear weapon.

He said "conventional designs" for the weapon "have existed in American laboratories" and that "they would already have been tested, had it not been for the test moratorium."

In his letter, Murray didn't mention the neutron bomb but some scientists speculated that that was what he meant.

New Satellite Orbits by U.S.

Discoverer Recovery Planned by Air Force

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The Discoverer No. 25 satellite was circling the earth every 91 minutes today carrying a secret payload the Air Force hopes to recover in 1 to 4 days.

The 2,100-pound satellite, 18th in the series to achieve polar orbit, blasted into space through heavy fog at 4:33 p.m., Pacific Daylight Time Friday.

Because of the fog, newsmen a mile from the launch area were unable to see either the missile or its exhaust. But they heard its roar as it sped upward.

An hour and 45 minutes later, tracking stations in Hawaii and Alaska reported the space vehicle was in orbit.

Since the first Discoverer launching Feb. 28, 1959, only seven have failed to orbit. But the figures on capsule recovery are much less impressive:

Twenty of them have had the capability for ejecting space capsules, but so far only four capsules have been recovered.

In keeping with custom, the Air Force declined to say what type of gear the latest 300-pound capsule contained. Officials would neither confirm nor deny that sky-spy camera equipment for the projected Samos satellite surveillance system was aboard.

Plans call for the Discoverer No. 25 to remain aloft as long as possible—perhaps the full four days—so instruments may gather a maximum of data.

Weather and the condition of the vehicle will be the determining factors.

After the capsule is ejected over Alaska, cargo planes will try to hook its parachute as it drifts down near Hawaii. Failing this, surface ships will attempt to recover it from the sea.

The satellite was orbiting with an apogee (highest point) of 250 statute miles and a perigee (low point) of 140 statute miles.

Low Temperature Prediction Heard

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Weather Bureau Friday reported this outlook for the next 30 days:

"The Weather Bureau's 30-day outlook for the period from mid-June to mid-July calls for temperatures to average below seasonal normals in the Northeast and in the southern half of the nation east of the Continental Divide. Above-normal temperatures are predicted west of the divide and in the northern Plains, with greatest departures in the Pacific Northwest. In areas not specified near-normal averages are in prospect."

National Union Government To Be Organized

Pro-West Strongman Says Trio Is Now in 'Perfect Agreement'

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP)—Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, pro-Western Laotian military strongman, said today the kingdom's three warring princes have agreed to seek formation of a "government of national union."

Phoumi issued the statement after a meeting between Premier Prince Boun Oum, and his pro-Communist rival, Prince Souphanouvong, head of the Pathet Lao guerrillas.

"We are all in perfect agreement," Phoumi told newsmen. "We are now going to seek formation of a government of national union."

The two princes met following a preliminary huddle Friday between Boun Oum and Prince Souvanna Phouma, self-styled neutral who claims to be rightful premier of Laos.

Immediate aim of the three rival princes will be to decide on a single delegation to represent Laos at the general conference, which has bogged down in efforts to make the Southeast Asian kingdom peacefully neutral.

Phoumi said earlier the items the three princes will take up will be application of the cease-fire in Laos where scattered jungle fighting continues, the country's neutrality and "national reconciliation."

There was no immediate comment from Souphanouvong about the meeting.

Phoumi said Boun Oum will continue to meet with his rivals in an effort to iron out details of what he said will represent "a general agreement."

"The atmosphere was very cordial," Phoumi said. "We have agreed on all problems. We will now seek formation of a national union government."

"Once the foreign intervention stops, there will be no conflicts," Boun Oum said. "I am proposing to the leaders of the opposition to forget the grievances and rancors to bring real peace and neutrality to our country."

Drug Price Fixing Verdict Is Returned

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The government victory in its first criminal case involving drug price fixing Friday is expected to have nationwide repercussions.

A federal court jury returned a verdict of guilty against the Northern California Pharmaceutical Association on the charge of conspiring to fix prescription drug prices in violation of the Sherman Antitrust Act.

The verdict came on the 11th day of trial before U.S. District Judge Louis E. Goodman. Co-defendant Donald K. Hedgepeth, San Francisco pharmacist and an association vice president, also was convicted.

The association and Hedgepeth each could be fined up to $50,000 and Hedgepeth's maximum penalty could include a year in jail.

Judge Goodman set June 22 for sentencing. He also will hear defense motions then to set aside the verdict and for acquittal.

Hedgepeth was released on his own recognizance pending the hearing.

Lytle L. Jones, Justice Department attorney, said the government's victory and predicted that: "The conviction will help prevent price fixing in other areas and will go far to eliminate restraints in the drug field where cases have not yet been brought."

Hog Prices Unchanged

U.S. Evidence Confirms Red Space Trip, Solon Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Walter H. Moeller says "It is sheer stupidity" to say that Soviet Maj. Yuri Gagarin did not orbit in space, and that "it is most unfortunate that a man so unimpaired" was allowed to tell that to more than 1,200 youngsters at Buckeye Boys State.

The Lancaster, Ohio, Democrat was referring to the speech at Athens, Ohio, last Monday by John H. Noble. The congressman said he just learned about the speech and was sending "a very stiff letter" to Noble.

The lecturer told a Boys State audience on the Ohio University campus of his experiences in serving nine years in Russian slave labor camps. He commented that Russian scientific achievements were vastly overrated and that he doubted if Gagarin actually made the space flight.

But Moeller said there is incontrovertible proof that Gagarin did just that. Within one minute after Gagarin's blast off, our tracking systems picked up his space vehicle, Moeller explained.

Also, the congressman said, his House Space Committee has classified information that proves beyond a doubt that the Soviet feat was no hoax.

Getting back to Noble, Moeller said, "We're asleep as it is and then somebody like this comes along and wants to give us another sedative."

It's statements like those attributed to Noble that "make us people of the United States more lethargic and secure than they have a right to be," Moeller added.

The congressman said he was sending letters to Joseph S. Deutsche of Columbus, state adjutant of the Ohio American Legion, who, Moeller said, helped set up the Boys State program, and to Alex Blair, commander of the Ohio American Legion. The Legion sponsors Buckeye Boys State.

U.S. Spy Case against Czech Pondered by U.N. Secretary

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U.S. spy charges against a handsome Czech diplomat and his counter-claim that American intelligence tried to hire him landed on U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld's desk today.

Central figure in the drama is Miroslav Naevalac, 39, No. 3 man in the Czech U.N. mission. He declared he will ignore U.S. demands that he leave the country until he gets instructions from his government.

A U.N. spokesman said Hammarskjöld is studying a U.S. request that Naevalac be expelled on grounds he had been collecting information from an American government worker for almost a year.

Also before the secretary-general was a protest from the Czech U.N. mission claiming U.S. agents had dangled promises of unlimited wealth before Naevalac if he would become a spy for the United States.

Both the U.S. and Czech accounts were replete with cloak and dagger details including threats of blackmail and violence, but the facts varied sharply.

State Department spokesman Lincoln White gave this account to newsmen in Washington:

Naevalac made contact about a year ago with an American, then a government employee, and demanded his cooperation, threatening that the American's fiancée in Czechoslovakia would be prevented from joining him in the United States.

"She was used as a hostage to force the individual's cooperation in espionage activities," White said.

White said Naevalac not only used threats but indicated there was a possibility he might defect and remain in the United States.

"Let me make clear, however, that in fact the American citizen was cooperating with this government while seeming to act under Naevalac's instructions," White said.

The spokesman said the American had access to classified U.S. information, but that he furnished only "purported" secrets to Naevalac.

He added that the American was of Czech origin. The department withheld his name and that of his fiancée. She has since been admitted to the United States and they are now married, he said.

"Naevalac paid sums of money for what he believed to be classified information of the U.S. government," White said.

Red Support Is Given to Lumumba Clan

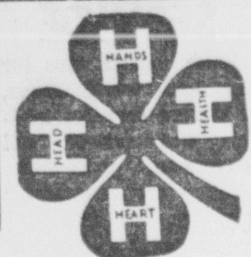

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—Communist cash and followers of slain Patrice Lumumba were behind a plot against President Joseph Kasavubu's government, informed sources said today.

A government announcement said the plot had been smashed said only that the conspiracy was organized by an unnamed foreign embassy. Many have been arrested, including 40 soldiers of the Congo's army and an official in the foreign ministry.

Gen. Joseph Mobutu, the army commander, told reporters the plotters set next Wednesday as the day to strike. He said the plot involved poisoning or kidnapping government leaders.

It had been apparent in this capital of the troubled Congo that something was in the wind for the past five days.

Police and paratroopers in trucks and jeeps have been cruising the streets, rounding up suspects and examining identity cards.

Gale LaRue, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther LaRue, Route 2, Ashville, has been selected by the County 4-H Council Awards Committee to receive a $25 scholarship to the Ohio Forestry Camp at Tar Hollow. The camp is set up so that the sponsor, in this case the Container Corporation of America, awards the $25 scholarship and the recipient pays $10 toward the camp fee.

Gail will spend June 18-24 at Tar Hollow where he and the other campers will receive classes in forest management, wood utilization, reforestation, plantation management, watershed management and tree identification. In addition, bird and nature hikes, leaf collections and bus trips to nearby wood utilization plants round out a full week.

The camp is sponsored by the Ohio Forestry Association. The Forestry Training Camp program is designed to emphasize the importance of Ohio's natural resources, with special emphasis on forests, soil and water. The interrelations of these resources is taught in their natural setting, by professional foresters, under the supervision of school administrators and lay leaders.

The students gain a liking for conservation by study and observation in pleasant surroundings in company with other students having similar interests. Nature hikes, outdoor sports, excellent and abundant food, good evening programs and comfortable, rustic housing combine to make the week a memorable one.

Gale now is in his seventh year of 4-H club work. He has been active in both the Madison Livewires Club and the Pickaway Soil Savers. His advisers are Wayne Brown, Warren Kinsell, Donald Archer and C. V. Neal.

Insect Alerts

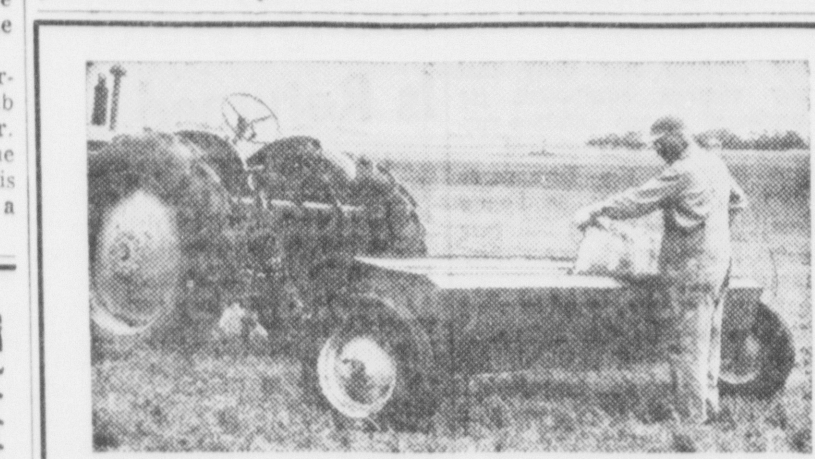

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,

Mosquito Control — Due to the wet spring, we can expect more mosquitoes than usual. Sometimes a nearby stagnant pool or storm sewer basin will hold enough water to turn out thousands of mosquitoes. Sprays of DDT, malathion, chlordane, and lindane will kill mosquitoes (wigglers) in the water.

As for the winged adults, spraying dense shrubbery or tall grass with above insecticides can reduce numbers that shelter on your property. Municipal fogging programs also give some relief, but the best control comes only from eliminating the water sources in which mosquitoes breed.

Chiggers — Chiggers are most commonly found in rank weeds or brush in damp localities (long streams, or wet fields), but can also be found along fences. These areas, if converted to lawns, may continue to harbor chiggers. Apply chigger repellent as a ring around the sox above shoe-tops.

A bath soon after exposure will kill many chiggers before they become established. For relief from itching caused by chiggers have the druggist make this preparation, benzocaine five per cent, methyl salicylate two per cent, salicylic acid 0.5 per cent, ethyl alcohol, 73 per cent water 19.5 per cent.

Homemaker News

By MRS. KOLEEN WRIGHT

Home Economics Agent

This is a continuation of last week's column on tips for buying fruits and vegetables. Strawberries and watermelon will be discussed today.

Large strawberries are usually preferred for dessert purposes because of their attractive appearance. However, flavor is a varietal characteristic and size is not necessarily an indication of flavor.

A great number of varieties have been developed for adaptability to many varying soils and climatic conditions. For this reason, the purchase of berries to fit individual flavor preference must depend on a knowledge of varieties or on actual taste trial.

Quality in strawberries is indicated by a fresh, clean bright appearance, and a generally full red color. The fruit should be free from moisture and dirt, and the cap and a portion of stem should be attached. Small misshapen berries are usually poor in quality and flavor and often contain small, hard green areas.

OVERRIPE strawberries or those that are not fresh have a dull lusterless, or shrunken appearance, and are apt to be wet or leaky. The presence of soft, damaged or decayed berries is often indicated by a stained container.

Decay can usually be detected by the presence of mold, which may be present anywhere in the container, but may not be evident in the visible display. Mold or decay, not otherwise apparent, can often be detected by tipping the container until some berries near the center of the container can be observed. Berries with out caps are highly susceptible to mold and decay.

Watermelon—the essential quality in watermelons is maturity. This is often extremely difficult for even an experienced buyer to determine. The stage of ripeness of a watermelon without an opportunity to observe interior color and texture is hard.

Because few consumers can properly keep or utilize a whole watermelon and to best allow consumers to judge their purchases, most markets usually display cut melons in halves or quarters. Such display allows the consumer to judge color of flesh, which should be a good red, color of seeds, usually dark brown or black in fully matured melons, and flesh texture, which should be firm and succulent.

Light colored flesh and white seeds indicate immaturity and consequent lack of flavor and sweetness. Dry, mealy flesh, or watery, stringy flesh showing darkening and softening of tissues next to seeds indicate overmaturity or excessive elapsed time after harvesting. In either case desirable crispness and flavor will be lacking.

A hard, white streak located lengthwise through the flesh indicate a condition known as "white heart" which makes the edible quality very undesirable. Consumers seldom find decay a problem in melons freshly cut for display, but outer rind surface should be examined for penetrating injuries.

Power of Suggestion

CINCINNATI (AP) — Taped music tailored for special occasions serenades downtown Cincinnati three times a day as a public relations gesture by an insurance firm.

Most comment is favorable, but a flock of complaints came in during "Invest in America Week." Songs like "Three Coins in the Fountain," "I Found a Million Dollar Baby" and "Pennies from Heaven" were played over and over.

"I admit that we overdid it that week," said a company spokesman.

Is Farm Surplus Good or Harmful?

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

What kind of prices do you think you would pay for food if there were no farm surpluses?

Suppose the nation had a one or two per cent deficit of farm commodities, how much difference would that make in your grocery bill?

Economists vary in their opinions of this question, but most agree the increase in food costs would be substantial.

By almost any measurement, food is a bargain in this country. One of the main reasons for this is that farmers have been able to produce more for less cost. In our competitive economy, these savings are passed on quickly to the consumer.

OHIO STATE University Extension economists point out that if wheat farmers grew 18 bushels to the acre, the cost per bushel would be $2. But when they produce 30 bushels to the acre, the cost is cut to $1.50. The same principle applies for other food crops.

Food is much cheaper than it was 40 or 50 years ago — in terms of the effort it takes to get it. In 1910 it took 120 hours of labor to exchange for the food eaten by a family of four in a month's time. Today, it takes 38 hours. Thirty years ago, one hour of factory labor would buy 7.8 pints of milk. Today it will buy twice that much.

If you are like most persons in the United States, you spend about 20 per cent of your income, after taxes, for food. Russians spend about 56 per cent of their income for food. West Germans about 45 per cent and the Japanese about 42 per cent.

Wise Farmers Try To Keep Hogs Cool

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

You'd be surprised at some of the things farmers are doing these days to keep their hogs cool in summer.

Shower baths, shaded "patios", fans — they're all a part of the modern-day treatment some farmers are giving their hogs in order to produce high quality pork at reasonable costs.

The trend is toward growing hogs in confinement rather than letting them run out in the fields. Confining hogs to a small, paved area equipped with feeders and waterers enables them to gain more efficiently and under more sanitary conditions, some farmers maintain.

But this confinement also increases the problem of keeping the hogs cool. Since the animals can't get under a tree in the pasture, or in a mud hole down by the creek, farmers often provide artificial means for keeping them cool.

HOGS do not perspire. This means that the only way they have of eliminating body heat is by radiation or conduction to their surroundings, or by breathing out moisture from the lungs. That's why hogs often pant on a hot day.

Hogs become uncomfortable when temperatures reach the 80's, and they are in distress when temperatures climb to the 90's. They make less efficient use of their feed.

Tests conducted by the U. S. Department of Agriculture show that a 100-pound hog requires nearly twice as much feed to produce a pound of gain at 90 degree temperatures as it does at 70 degree temperatures. For a 200-pound hog — that's about the weight at which they should be marketed — three times as much feed is required to produce a pound of gain at 90 degree temperatures as at 70 degree temperatures.

Heat can be a highly critical factor affecting pregnant sows, both in terms of the live pigs which are born and in the number of pigs which are saved, according to Extension swine specialists and the agricultural engineers at The Ohio State University.

Many Ohio Swine farmers, specialists say, are installing two inches of blanket type insulation in their central farrowing houses, plus ventilation systems which will provide 30 or 40 air changes per hour during hot weather.

Shades over feeders, waterers and resting areas are quite common on Ohio swine farms. Some farmers are using snow fencing painted white in the upper side to provide protection from direct sun. Others have areas equipped with overhead pipes in which fog nozzles are spaced to spray-cool the hogs in extended hot weather.

Helpful Hints for Control Of Garden Insects Listed

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

Certain insects attack vegetables whether in a home garden or a commercial farm planting.

This discussion concerns control of insects in the non-commercial garden patch, since commercial growers have the bulletin "Pesticides for Control of Vegetable Insects and Diseases — 1961." The insecticides mentioned here for the farm garden patch and backyard garden can be used safely as dusts or in compressor type sprayers.

Listed here are nine commonly grown vegetables and the main insects causing damage. Insecticide labels should be followed very closely.

1. Snapbeans — Attacked by Mexican bean beetle (orange slug, or big orange lady beetle with many spots), leafhoppers, and bean leaf beetle. Insecticides to use are sevin, a combination of methoxychlor and malathion or rotenone.

2. Beets — Fea beetles eat holes in young leaves. Use methoxychlor, malathion or sevin.

3. Carrots — Leafhoppers. Use methoxychlor, malathion or sevin. 4. Lettuce — (loose leaf, or head) —Cabbage looper (a green caterpillar), leafhopper. Use a combination of methoxychlor and malathion. Use insecticide at first sign of injury, because insecticides do not give good control of large looper.

5. Cabbage, Broccoli, Brussels Sprouts and Cauliflower — Cabbage worm and cabbage looper (both green caterpillars), aphids. Use combination of methoxychlor and malathion. Add about one tablespoonful of household detergent to each gallon of spray in order to wet cabbage leaves; important for good results.

6. Onions — thrips rasp white streaks on leaves and hide in base of leaves. Use methoxychlor and malathion and be sure to add detergent to spray in order to wet leaves.

7. Cucumbers, Melons, Squash and Pumpkin — Striped cucumber beetle feeds soon after plant comes through ground. This beetle and the spotted cucumber beetle and aphids also cause later injury. Spray preventatively once a week with methoxychlor and malathion. Use wettable powder formulation only as two or three sprayings with an oil emulsion formulation can kill the leaves.

8. Sweet Corn — Flea beetles eat holes when corn is just a few inches tall and spreads a bacterial disease. Use methoxychlor or DDT. Even before corn is knee-high corn borer may make ragged pin holes in the leaves. Use three or four sprayings five days apart of DDT or sevin.

9. Tomatoes — Flea beetle attacks soon after transplanting and opens the way for certain diseases. Use either methoxychlor, malathion or sevin. After fruit forms, protect them against fruitworm by a combination of methoxychlor and malathion, which protects against aphid build-up too.

Sevin will be offered for the first time this year in small packages. Methoxychlor and malathion can be bought separately or are available in ready-to-use mixtures.

Edward E. Hargrett, agent in charge of the office, said FBI agents in Silver Spring arrested David B. Williams, 35, Wednesday night. Williams was released under $2,000 bond pending a hearing before a U. S. commissioner in Bethesda, Md., June 28.

Williams has been on probation since last August, on state charges of forging checks in Youngstown. Hargrett said the federal charge is based on the allegation that the former bank examiner took the pass book of a depositor at the Home Savings & Loan Co. in Youngstown when he was examining the books of that bank in February 1960.

Evidence shows, the FBI agent said, that Williams transferred the $1,442 account to the Brecksville office of the Third Federal Savings & Loan Association of Cleveland, then withdrew the money for his own use.

30 Blank Diplomas Handed Seniors for Insulting Principal

SAN MARINO, Calif. (AP) — When the graduating class of San Marino High School marched up to receive diplomas, 30 members of the class got blank ones.

Principal John Landrum disclosed the reason the day after graduation.

Two weeks before commencement a caravan of students drove to the Arcadia home of Vice Principal Norman Frost. They pelted his windows, roof, garage and lawn with rotten eggs, mellow melon, grapefruit rinds and other garbage.

Frost recognized one of the students and soon the whole group was known to school officials.

Landrum added the offending students eventually will get their diplomas by mail. But first, each must write a sincere letter of apology to Frost; do 40 hours of manual labor for the school; and finally, compose a 500-word essay on the subject, "What this experience means to me."

Zoning Is a Tool

Zoning is not an end in itself, being merely a tool that a community can employ to regulate the uses of land to make planning effective. Most authorities would probably agree that without proper use of zoning controls, planning is ineffectual.

But putting zoning into effect is fraught with difficulties, these being brought to any zoning board's attention in the form of protests from property owners and requests for special treatment — called profession.

It seems to follow that the more rigid a zoning policy is the more variances are sought and obtained. Thus there are reasons behind any planning commission's hesitation in setting up a device such as "exclusive industrial zoning."

TV for Amusement

I fear that I contribute to juvenile delinquency. I look at T. V. murders whenever I have any time for such things.

T. V., to me, is fun, relaxation, amusement. If I want to be educated, I prefer a carefully written book or monograph. Most of the learning I find on T. V. adds to juvenile confusion.

The debates among politicians and the question and answer programs are too trifling. Give me "Perry Mason," who wins every case of violating the rules of evidence. Or give me "Gunsmoke," where murder is the theme. What puzzles me is why these men do not marry their women.

Presumably a young fellow becomes a juvenile delinquent because, being bored with virtue, he watches T. V. and becomes vicious. But we had bad boys and bad girls long before there was any such thing as T. V. Jessie James and Gyp the Blood lived before T. V. It is too easy to jump to conclusions about what drives the young to sin and even to murder. We now have a whipping boy, T. V. Nobody, however, is corrupted by any one medium.

For instance, there seems to be a fashion these days for children to sue parents for money the parents earned or own. It seemed to have started with a young lady who went after her grandmother and it goes the rounds like any other fashion. I have not seen this violation of the Ten Commandments on T. V. but it occurs in life quite often. I was told recently that a Mother, coming home at a late hour, saw her very juvenile daughter, dressed to kill and going out. The Mother gently inquired where the young lady was going to and received an impolite reply.

What does a parent do under such circumstances? When I was a child, there was no doubt about it. The parent would seize the child, put it across a knee and give it a thorough spanking. If that is too much effort for the parent, it is certain that the child will grow up not only as a juvenile delinquent but as an adult delinquent. Parents who cater to childish impudence help to manufacture more juvenile delinquents than all the murders on T. V.

Besides, if children look at the murders, whose fault is it? The parent who says that he cannot refuse his child the wish to spend hours watching nonsense on T. V. is really not a parent. Such a person is little more than a legal guardian scared of his wards. The child, who may be bored with T. V. will look nevertheless to establish beyond question who is the boss.

Children who sue parents or grandparents for money which the children did not earn by their own work violate Natural Law and therefore should have no place in any court. It is part of our present leniency to grant children the right to persecute parents and to withdraw from parents the right to protect children from corrupting materialism.

In my opinion, the gossip columnists do more evil than the murders in T. V. When young people equate divorce as equal to marriage, when they regard it as the acme of success to be mentioned in such a column, however disagreeably, when they hire press agents to give them a bad

What the later means is that an area so zoned could be used only by industries, not for residences. As zoning stands currently, a residentially zoned district cannot be used for industry or commerce, but those zoned industrial or commercial can be used for homes.

The idea behind this approach has been against the hazards and nuisances involved in industrial and commercial operations.

But a realization is growing that business operations also need protection against the encroachment of residences. Service needs, street uses and general level of public controls are quite different for the two kinds of property — and don't mix well.

By George Sokolsky

name as long as the name is spelled correctly — then morality disappears and an entire nation suffers from corruption. I recently read one such document and could not discover in it a single name noted for service to the country, for contribution to civilization, or to fine and cultured living. The principal item dealt with a man who is openly living with a woman to whom he is not married.

If he can get away with that, why should not the kids imitate him, and her too, and get their names printed daily and favorably in the gossip columns. You and I can cite dozens of examples of the advertising of the immoral and the indecent to prove that such qualities pay while honest virtue is its own reward and gets you nowhere.

And so, I shall go back to my murders — to "Have Gun — Will Travel" where, at any rate, English is spoken as a language possessing grammar and diction and refinement of expression. Or perhaps I prefer relaxation in a Beatnik cafe where, at least, educated young and old, have something else to speak about than small and petty gossip about each other.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A SUMMER STOCK company was doing "Springtime for Henry" one week, with "Arsenic and Old Lace," featuring Boris Karloff, scheduled for the week following.

In the middle of Act Two of "Springtime for Henry," a bat suddenly whooshed out of the eaves and brushed the face of the male lead of "Springtime for Henry." Very calmly that resourceful gentleman waved the bat away and said very clearly, "No, no, you fool! NEXT week. NEXT week."

The bat flew away and the relieved audience applauded madly.

The last remaining "bachelor girl" in a big office appeared radiantly one morning and began to pass out cigars to all and sundry. "What's the big idea?" chorused her cohorts. Proudly she displayed a diamond ring and exulted, "It's a boy—six feet tall and weighs 190 pounds."

Carl Sandburg defines slang as "language that takes off its coat, spits on its hands, and goes to work."

Inside You and Yours

By BURTON H. FERN, M. D.
Imagine! Joe slumped over his desk with a stabbing pain below his belt — all because he had pneumonia!

Pain isn't always where you find it. Pneumonia may imitate appendicitis and indigestion may mimic a heart attack.

During those first days inside the womb, Baby resumes a string of tiny railroad cars. Soon, passengers begin moving from car to car to car up and down the train. Usually, long nerve cables link them to their original places and so nerves twist and turn to branch to many distant points inside the body.

Each branch works like a long telephone extension on the same cable. Since all messages funnel into this cable, the operator can't really tell where the call was made.

Like the operator, your brain can't always tell where nerve messages started.

The diaphragm muscle which separates chest from abdomen receives nerves from the neck and shoulder level — where the diaphragm originally grew. And so an overstuffed stomach stretching the diaphragm may feel just like arthritis of the shoulder.

Bad molars can mimic migraine. Heart trouble may register any place from the pit of the stomach to the top of the shoulder — and down either arm.

That crick between your shoulder blades could mean gall bladder trouble. Who hasn't felt the heartburn of an upset stomach? Appendicitis and other troubles in the small intestine trigger navel pain.

Bladder twinges can be felt down to your big toe, and painful knees often announce hip trouble. You can see why you really need an examination to pinpoint most pains.

And your doctor won't limit himself to the troubled region. He'd feel like a fool ignoramus telling you to soak that aching knee when your hip is screaming for emergency treatment!

Dr. Fern's mailbox is wide open for letters from readers. While he cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Fern in care of this newspaper.

State Medical Board Aide Still Going Strong at 91

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The man whose signature authorizes a doctor to practice in Ohio will be 92 on Sunday.

And it appears that the signature of H. M. Platter, M. D., will continue to grace state medical licenses, at least in the immediate future.

Not that Herbert Morris Platter is reluctant to surrender his secretaryship of the Ohio State Medical Board, a post he agreed to "try for a while" almost 44 years ago.

Dr. Platter announced last year that he intended to resign, and he is staying on only to allow the board adequate time to find a qualified successor. There is no indication that the board has been successful.

In 1896, four years after Platter completed his medical degree work at Starling Medical College in Columbus (now absorbed by Ohio State University), the Legislature created the medical board. It was designed as a centralized state agency to register and license physicians.

Dr. Frank Winters of Ohio State became board secretary, with Platter as assistant.

"We had a good battle for the post," the nonagenarian physician recalls. He remembers that he lost out after "20 or 30 ballots."

After a couple of years, Platter took his talents elsewhere. He served with the Columbus and state health departments, doing considerable medical detective work in tracking down sources of epidemics of smallpox, typhoid, polio and scarlet fever.

Today he enjoys a reputation as one of the greatest living experts on smallpox. Occasionally the Ohio Health Department asks him to examine a person suspected of having the disease "these young fellows have never seen."

With other health officials at the turn of the century, he hammered at the theme of preventive smallpox vaccination and typhoid inoculation, precautions now considered basic.

After studying in Berlin and Vienna, "where everybody went for postgraduate work at that time," he began a practice in dermatology (the skin and its diseases) in 1912. It didn't last long. He was persuaded to set up a formal health program in the Columbus public school system and write its manual.

He was engaged in this when Dr. George H. Matson of Ohio Wesleyan University, second secretary of the state medical board, died in 1917. Platter then stepped into the position he has held for more than four decades.

"I said I'd try it for a while to see how it went and how they liked me," he says with a chuckle. "But I insisted on more than just one part-time inspector. I didn't think the jury of the board should be going up the back alleys looking for violations."

His relationship with the board, n

he concedes, worked out "pretty well."

But, he adds: "I've been here so long it's time someone else found out about medical licensing."

When he finally does retire, he plans among other things to continue his reading. ("A man doesn't enjoy traveling alone.")

He enjoys detective stories as well as medical journals, and adds:

"Mother encouraged me to read the good books, especially when we were snowed in at home down in Lockbourne."

(That southern Franklin County community now sits in the shadow of the huge Lockbourne Air Force Base, but has grown only slightly since the doctor's youth.)

And, dryly, he comments:

"When a person reaches my age, most of his future plans are in the hands of the good Lord."

He gave up his part-time practice of 35 years in 1954 and taught medical law at Ohio State University until 12 years before that. A widower and great-grandfather, he rides to his downtown Columbus office each day with his son, with whom he makes his home. He also has a daughter, granddaughter and great-granddaughter.

He says of his work:

"It's a career. I've had a good deal of fun in," he grins, "even if it's not especially remunerative. I've gotten my children through school. I haven't amassed enough that my heirs will have to fight over it, yet they won't be in debt. 'I'd say the Lord's been good to me.'"

Dear Abby...

By Abigail VanBuren

Accept It Gracefully, Mom!

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter just finished her freshman year at a good eastern school. She brought home a habit that her father and I do not approve of. She smokes. Here is her "excuse": She said that when she started dating boys from some of the fine eastern schools, she learned that if she had a cigarette in her mouth, they couldn't kiss her. Now, Abby, please don't think this is a joke. She told us this in all seriousness. We would like your opinion of her explanation.

DEFEATED
DEAR DEFEATED: Don't you believe it. She just likes to smoke. A little thing like a lighted cigarette would not discourage some of the men in those "fine eastern schools." They are fire-eaters.

DEAR ABBY: I recently had a baby girl. After three boys, you can imagine our joy. We named her Deborah Susan. She is only a few months old, and people are calling her "Debbie."

If I had wanted her called "Debbie," I would have named her "Debbie." Her name is Deborah Susan and I wish people would call her that. My relatives say that when she starts school, everyone will call her "Debbie," whether I like it or not, so I had better get used to it. Is there any way I can get people to call her by her proper name?

DEBORAH SUSAN'S MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: You are fighting a losing battle. Deborah Susan is a lovely name, but it is quite a mouthful. Relax and get used to "Debbie" because by the time your daughter is 4, if you call her "Deborah Susan," she will think you are annoyed with her.

DEAR ABBY: My parents and my husband's parents have a key to our home, which we gave them in "case of emergency."

My in-laws have never used their key, nor have they entered my home without being invited. My parents use the key whenever we are not at home, or when we do not answer the door. My husband has never said anything about it, but I know he is annoyed. I don't blame him. I am annoyed, too. Can you suggest some way to stop this without making a major issue of it? I resent knowing we have so little privacy.

NO PRIVACY
DEAR NO: Call a Summit Meeting with your parents. There's no need to include your husband. They're YOUR parents—not his. First define "emergency," and then tell them you would appreciate it if they used the key only in case of emergency.

What's bothering you? For a personal reply, write to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif. Include a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Be sure to wash leeks carefully when you are using them in soup or some other way. Run water into the tops, down through the stalks, to get rid of grit.

Reds Rookie Hurler Chalks Seventh Win

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—So far Ken Hunt's rookie season in the majors has been everything a young pitcher could wish for.

Friday night, Hunt gave up only three hits as he pitched the Reds to a 4-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies. It was his seventh victory against three defeats, and it got his earned run average down to 2.81—a tie with veteran Bob Purkey.

The only drawback to it, from Hunt's point of view, was that he was not allowed to finish the game. To date, the 22-year-old righthander has gone the distance in only two games.

At first it was because manager Freddie Hutchinson did not want to take unnecessary chances and overstrain his prize find this year. But since Hunt began to accumulate his record of triumphs, including one over the almost unbeatable (for the Reds) Pittsburgh Pirates, Hutchinson has changed his views.

"The kid hasn't picked on any soft clubs in winning his games," he said recently. "And he also beat some tough pitchers."

More specifically, Hutchinson says, "Hunt has some real weapons—a good fast ball and a good curve. And he can get them over either sidearm or overhead."

Friday night, one Don Demeter seemed to have the answer to Hunt's assortment of pitches.

Demeter got two hits off Hunt. One was a single. The other was the home run that gave the Phils their only score in the seventh inning.

All the Reds' runs came in the eighth.

Buffalo Gets Solid Hurling

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Buffalo Bisons, terrors to all International League pitchers this season, have found that their own pitching is making them as solid contenders.

Two route-going performances by Humberto Robinson and Ruben Gomez helped the fourth-place Bisons to a doubleheader sweep over the Charleston Marlins Friday night, 2-0 and 4-3, and dropped the Marlins into a tie for first place with the Columbus Jets.

The Jets took two from lowly Syracuse, 1-0 and 7-4. The twin triumph by Buffalo moved the Bisons to within 1½ games of third-place Jersey City, 5-3 winners in 10 innings over Toronto. Rochester edged Richmond 8-7 in the other IL game.

Tom Cheney pitched a one-hitter in the seven inning opener for Columbus, striking out five and not walking a man. Chet Beak's single provided the only Syracuse runner, in the sixth inning. Roman Mejias and John Powers hit back-to-back homers in a four-run first inning in the nightcap, and Powers added another homer later on for the Jets' big run-makers.

Doherty Resigns As Xavier Coach

CINCINNATI (AP)—The assistants of Xavier University's head football coach Ed Doherty "will be first in line to be considered for the head coaching job," the Rev. Paul J. O'Connor, S.J., president of Xavier, said Friday after Doherty announced his plan to go to California this winter.

"I was very much surprised, indeed. I always thought Ed was happy with his present position," Father O'Connor said.

Doherty, who took over at Xavier two years ago, said he will move to San Diego, Calif. He declined to say whether he has a job waiting for him there. His present contract was due to terminate at the end of this year.

Under Doherty, Xavier football teams won 9 games and lost 11.

Tarleton's 23-20 Win Paces Night's Little League Play

A 21-hit attack brought Tarleton's Merchants Jr. a squeaking 23-20 triumph over Third National in a wild Little League minor contest last night at Tarleton.

Ward's Market relied on heavy slugging by Jim Hill and Bryce Brown, who counted seven hits between them, to drop Rotary 12-2 and the First National boys battled Savings Bank to an 8-8 tie suspended because of time limit in other LL minor action.

In the majors, Bingham's Drug threw a scare into Purina hurler Bill Hill with an eight-run uprising in the last of the sixth. The 11-run drive fell short by one run as Ralston copped the 11-10 verdict.

Tarleton was paced by a pair of homers by catcher Justice and one each by Dave Elick and Dean in gaining their win. They blasted off to a 12-2 lead and added seven in the second frame.

LOSING moundsman Charles Nunemaker held them scoreless in the third while Third National added six runs to go with the five they collected in the second. They broke 10-0 for seven tallies on only one hit, Gillian's single, in the fourth.

Tarleton came back with four markers on singles by Dean Fraunfelder Jack Jenkins and Justice's second four-bagger to insure the decision. Third National benefited from a whopping 19 walks in scoring their total. Tarleton received only four free passes.

Winning pitcher Bob Tootle ran into some rough going against Rotary in the first frame. Tom Lutz, Dick Walters and Tom Row belted out back-to-back leadoff singles. Tootle picked Lutz off at second and Walters was caught in a first-second baseman rundown to eliminate the loser's only big score threat.

18-Year-Old Hurls Shutout For Athletics

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Lew Krausse Jr., an admittedly frightened teen-ager, proved Friday night that baseball bonus babies can be worth their cost.

The strapping six-footer, just two weeks out of Chester, Pa., high school, lived up to the $125,000 bonus he got for signing with the Athletics by pitching a three-hit, 4-0 shutout over the Los Angeles Angels.

The 18-year-old son of an A's scout who once toiled for the old Philadelphia Athletics, young Krausse delivered the goods before the largest home crowd of the season, 30,505.

"I pitched just like Dad told me to pitch before the game," the boy confided. "He told me to throw strikes. That's all he told me."

Throw strikes he did. He walked five but struck out six and in most cases was well ahead of the batter. Four double plays aided his cause. He delivered only 114 pitches.

Krausse also got two of the A's eight hits and executed a perfect sacrifice bunt.

Said Manager Joe Gordon: "The kid is a major leaguer, a great prospect, no doubt about it." Gordon said under the circumstances it was the best game he ever saw pitched.

Sportswriters flipping through their record books could find no previous instance of a pitcher just out of high school starting a major league game, much less finishing it and pitching a shutout.

South Is Favored In All-Star Tilt

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Superior height and scoring potential have stamped the southern squad as the favorite in the fourth annual North-South All-Star Ohio High School Basketball Game at Cuyahoga Falls tonight.

The Rebels have a 21.4-point average per man, compared with the North's 18-point average.

Coaches of both squads have said they will use the platoon system, giving all the 22 players a chance to see action. The teams will play 10-minute quarters.

Dale Reichenbach of Elyria and Pete Prokop of Liberty are coaching the northern squad. Coaches of the southerners are George Heller of Portsmouth and Columbus Hines of Lebanon Dixie.

Budapest Embargo Checked by Rusk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., said today that the State Department has forbidden embassy employees in Budapest to maintain normal contacts with the Hungarian government.

Ellender made his complaint at a Senate Appropriations subcommittee hearing in which he told Secretary of State Dean Rusk he attributes the action to political pressure from Hungarian refugees in this country.

Rusk voiced surprise and said he was not "aware of any embargo that we've placed," but that the Hungarians had placed some restrictions.

He said he would investigate and make a report.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy today chose Robert F. Woodward, now ambassador to Chile, to be assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs.

Honored Dad's Wife Is Proud

Kentucky Family Is Feted in East

NEW YORK (AP)—If ever a woman is quietly proud, it's Inez Durham.

She's taking her first plane ride, making her first visit to New York and Washington, enjoying her family's first vacation trip together and all because other people share her long-held view that her husband Earl is a wonderful guy.

The public recognition came when Earl Durham was named Worker Father of the Year by the National Fathers Day Committee for his community youth work.

From the first word of his selection until the Durhams and their four children took off for the East last weekend, their five-room white frame house in Louisville, Ky., rocked with excitement.

Mrs. Durham, a slim brunette, lost five pounds she'd rather have kept, in the frantic preparations for the trip sponsored by Durham's union and the tobacco company he has worked for 25 years.

The two older daughters, Janice Compton, 23, and Sandra, 19, do office work for the same company. Cahole, 16, and Bob, 15, go to high school.

They all agree about pop: "We think he's great. We're glad he's our father."

Mrs. Durham says she's having the time of her life, on the go every minute. In addition to seeing the customary tourist attractions, the family has visited its first night club, met Yankee Manager Ralph Houk—Sports Father of the Year—at a baseball game, was interviewed on a network television show, and rode down in an elevator with TV's Bill Cullen.

Canada Finds It Is Using Red Ink, Too

OTTAWA (AP)—Canada, which had balanced budgets even after World War II, ran in the red again in its last fiscal year—and more heavily than the government had expected.

Finance Minister Donald M. Fleming announced today the last year closed with a budget deficit of $345.5 million. That was $59.5 million more than he had predicted in December. His original budget in March 1960 predicted a $12 million surplus.

The cause was recession. The gross national product—the total of all goods and services—did not come up to expectations. Taxes consequently failed to rise and the government boosted spending to counter the current business slump.

This policy has been opposed by James E. Coyne, governor of the Bank of Canada and major figure in a dispute on government fiscal policies. The government wants to oust him, claiming his views are too conservative.

Coyne says inaction rather than monetary policy has been the real bar to fighting the slump.

Last year's budget had forecast a 6 per cent increase in the gross national product. Instead it gained 3.2 per cent—$35.9 billion in 1960 compared to $34.8 billion the year before.

Taxes rose 6 per cent to a record $5.6 billion. But expenditures also rose, to $5.9 billion. This was a boost of 5 per cent.

This was the fourth year of deficits. The largest peacetime deficit was $9.3 million in 1958-59.

The new Canadian budget will be presented next week.

Mental Chief Hints Layoff Of 600-Plus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state mental health director denied before a stormy session of the senate finance committee Friday that any department workers have been fired yet because of budget cuts made by the house.

But Dr. Robert A. Haines, the director, warned that if the Senate permits the budget cuts to stand it will be necessary to lay off about 600 employees in the mental hygiene division, about 70 in the juvenile division and 10 or 12 in the executive division. He said some have been warned of the possibility of dismissal.

Haines was summoned before the committee by Chairman William H. Daddens, R-Hamilton, to explain what Daddens called, "violent, adverse press releases, stories and actions of Dr. Haines."

The director asserted he had been misquoted in several newspaper stories regarding the possible dismissals.

He said he will do his best to operate the state's mental health treatment program within whatever money is allotted by the legislature and that no hospitals will be closed because of budget cuts made up to this time.

Haines asserted the mental hygiene program has been aided an increase of only $3.6 million over the current biennium despite the fact a number of new treatment facilities have been operated since the 1959 appropriations bill was passed.

Another Maverick (Brent) Joins Bret, Bart and Beau

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — There's another maverick hereabouts, name of Brent, relative of Bret, Bart and Beau.

His real name is Robert Colbert, but obviously that name has got to go. He pronounces it coal bare, just like Claudette, but is resigned to being called coalburt. Robert Colbert is a bit too mellifluous, so we'd better call him Bob.

He is the latest of the substitutes being pressed into duty for James Garner, who blew the "Maverick" series amid a flurry of litigation. First there was Roger Moore, who subbed as the Maverick's British cousin, Beau. Roger proved too piddly for TV viewers and was dealt out of the game.

Now comes Brent, or Bob Colbert, who bears a striking resemblance to Garner, the original.

"My introduction to the role was quite casual," he reports. "I had been under contract to Warner Brothers for a couple of years doing all kinds of parts. I had been rehearsing for a 'Lawman' with Mala Powers, and they told me to report to wardrobe for my costume."

"When I got there, they put on a fancy dude's suit. I told them there must have been some mistake, because I was supposed to play a blind man who had been crawling across the desert. But I was told not to ask questions, but to report to the production office."

"I walked down the studio street and everyone was hanging out the windows. I didn't realize that this was the day after Jim Garner had won his lawsuit."

Axle Causes Injury

Melvin Struckman, Montclair Ave., was injured by an axle instead of an ax as previously reported. He was treated at Berger Hospital.

I was wearing his costume and looking just like the reincarnation of Garner."

Bob reported to the bosses and was eyed up and down. "He's perfect," said an ABC official. "We can use the same stock footage."

Miss Mason Awarded Trip

Miss Minnie Mason, 120 Pleasant St., had plenty of enthusiasm when she left this week for a week's vacation in Miami, Fla.

Miss Mason recently was named a winner in a contest sponsored by the Pepsi-Cola Co., making the trip possible. She was anxious and ready for the Florida trip despite her age of 87.

The contest was based on selection of street dresses and Miss Mason's was chosen for second prize. She was notified of her award through the North End Market, Court and Pleasant Sts.

First prize in the contest amounted to a deed for one-quarter acre of land in Florida. Miss Mason said she was more than happy with her second prize.

The local resident will make the trip to Miami and back by bus. She and Mrs. James Terry, a companion, left Thursday with anticipation of having a fine time.

Crime Conspiracy Law Is Backed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The DiSalle administration put in a plug today for enactment of a criminal conspiracy law aimed at the elusive "bigshots" of crime.

Commerce Director Rankin Gibson, former secretary to Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, called for recommendation of a House-approved conspiracy bill at a hearing by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

He said the governor wanted such a law to help rid Ohio of major crime.

A similar proposal failed to win legislative approval two years ago.

Rep. Michael A. Sweeney, D-Cuyahoga, a co-sponsor, explained that the measure generally carries the same penalties for plotting to break gambling, prostitution and narcotics laws as for the actual violations.
